WILLIAM CHARLES ERNEST SEEBOECK

WILLIAM CHARLES ERNEST SEEBOECK was born in Vienna in 1860. He seems to have inherited his taste for music from his mother, who was an accomplished singer. He received a thorough collegiate education in Vienna, having attended the Theresianum, one of the finest institutions in Vienna. His musical instructors on the piano were Nottebohm, Grill and Epstein, and his instructors in composition were J. Brahms and Hermann Graedener. As soon as he had completed his studies in Vienna, he went to St. Petersburg, where he studied with Anton Rubinstein.

After extensive travels in Turkey, Egypt and India, he came to the United States and settled in Chicago in 1881, where he has since resided. For twelve years he has been the pianist for the Apollo Club, and has given his entire time to composing, teaching and playing in public.

Among his published works are: Three Spanish Dances; Fairy Dance; Berceuse for piano and violin à la Hongroise; Dewd op; Serenade for tenor in E; Serenade for soprano in A flat; The Gipsey Boy; Marie; How Fair and Sweet and Holy; It was a Dream; Concert paraphrase, Old Folks at Home; Bouree Antique; Minuet Antique in A major; I Come to thy Lattice; Two Portraits, "A. T. M.," and "W. V. L."; Three Bourees; Valse Caprice; La Fontaine de Treves; Berceuse for piano; Danse Bretonne; Barcarolle; Mazurka in A minor; Valse in A minor; Canzonetta in E flat; Hunting Song (male quartet), performed by the Apollo Club.

Among his unpublished works is the Faust Fantasie for piano; and a Quintet for piano and string quartet, dedicated to the Bendix Quartet, which was first performed in public in April, 1894; a set of twenty-seven Concert Etudes; two Concertos for piano; two Sonatas for piano; a set of variations for two pianos; an opera, The Gladiators; and over two hundred songs.

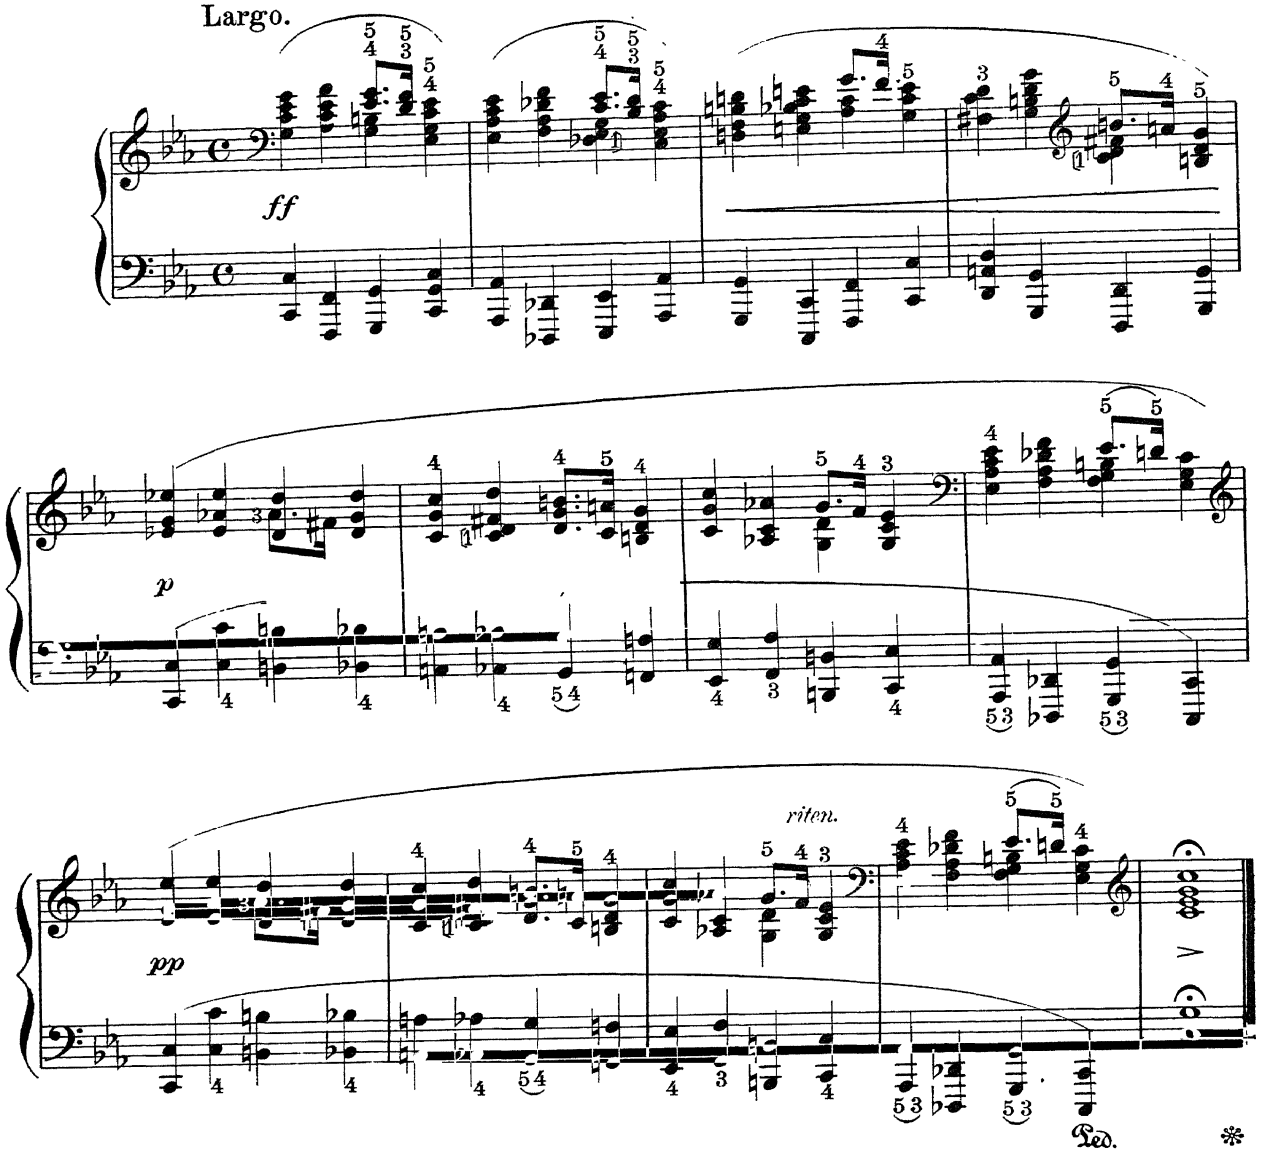
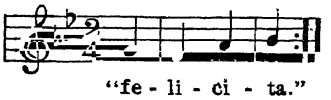
Prelude.

F. CHOPIN, Op. 28. № 20.



EDITOR'S NOTE TO THE ALLEGRETTO FROM THE EIGHTH SYMPHONY.

Beethoven became interested in the invention of Maelzel, called the "Metronome." Its tickings suggested a humorous Canon (Breitkopf & Härtel edition, Series 23, No. 43) in honor of the invention, in which the chorus sang the accompaniment in imitation of the tickings of the instrument on the syllables "ta, ta ta," etc. This Canon with its first melodic phrase is almost identical with the first two bars of the "Allegretto Scherzando." The three closing bars are a burlesque on the accepted closing phrases of Italian operas then in vogue, often ending in the word "felicita," thus:



"fe - li - ci - ta."

Henry Holden Huss

HENRY HOLDEN HUSS

HENRY HOLDEN HUSS, a lineal descendant of the martyr John Huss, was born in Newark, N. J., June 21, 1862. He studied piano with his father, and composition with O. B. Boise. Like many musicians, he decided at a very early age to be a composer. At the age of five Mozart was his musical idol, but the compositions of a few years later revealed his strong leaning toward the ultra modern school. In 1882 he entered the Royal Conservatory of Munich, especially to study theory and composition with Josef Rheinberger. His piano studies were continued with Prof. Josef Giehrl, who, as a student for three or four years with Franz Liszt, acquired the traditions of the Liszt school. Mr. Huss made his first appearance with orchestra in Munich, 1884, playing the G major piano concerto of Beethoven. In 1885 he graduated with honor, being requested by Rheinberger to extemporize for the entire faculty of the conservatory. At the closing concert of the conservatory year, he played his own Rhapsody in C minor for piano and orchestra. He made his first public appearance in America, by playing the same composition under Mr. Gericke's direction in October, 1886, in Boston at one of the symphony concerts. Since that date he has been writing and teaching, and occasionally appearing in public.

Among his principal compositions are the following: Piano concerto in B major, with orchestral accompaniment; violin concerto in D minor, with orchestral accompaniment; Forest Idyll for orchestra; Romanza and Polonaise for solo, violin and orchestra; Festival March for orchestra; trio in D minor for piano, violin and cello; String Quartet in E major (written when sixteen years old); Ave Maria for female chorus, solo, soprano, and alto, accompanied by string orchestra, harp and organ; Festival Sanctus and Benedictus for mixed chorus, solo, violin, orchestra and organ; Cleopatra, a dramatic fragment for solo, soprano and orchestra; The Winds, for mixed chorus; Festival Anthem for Easter for mixed chorus and orchestra or organ.

Some smaller works are as follows. For the voice: Three songs from the German, Du bist wie eine Blume; Der Jasimen Strauch; Der Frühling; Home they Brought her Warrior Dead, from Tennyson's "Princess," for alto; The Song of the Sirens, for soprano, with accompaniment of piano or orchestra.

For piano: Ballade; Minuet in C major; Polonaise de Concert in F sharp major; two preludes in A minor and C major.

ERNEST RICHARD KROEGER

ERNEST RICHARD KROEGER was born in St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 10, 1862. His early education was obtained at the public schools of that city, and from his father, a good amateur musician, he received when very young his first musical training. When fifteen years of age he was compelled by circumstances to enter a mercantile life, but he kept up his musical studies, and devoted nearly all his spare time to them. Several years later he relinquished a business for a professional career. His instructors in pianoforte playing were his father, Egmont Froelich, and W. Malméne. Later he worked under the direction of Charles Kunkel, one of the foremost pianists in this country, and a pupil of Gottschalk.

In the mean time he had varied his pianoforte studies with violin lessons, studying for ten years under the guidance of Ernst Spiering. He learned harmony from W. Malméne, counterpoint from P. G. Anton, and composition from W. Goldner of Paris, who visited St. Louis during the winter of 1884–85.

When fifteen years of age he became organist at Trinity Church, St. Louis, Mo., and from that time has given considerable attention to organ playing.

His orchestral compositions are: Symphony in B flat; Suite in C; Symphonic Overtures founded upon Byron's "Sardanapalus," Longfellow's "Hiawatha," and Chateaubriand's "Atala"; Overture Pittoresque to Keat's "Endymion"; and several smaller pieces.

For chamber music he has composed four String Quartets; one String Quintet; two Trios for Piano, Violin and Cello; a Quartet for Piano, Violin, Viola and Cello; a Quintet for two Violins, two Violas and Cello; Sonata in F for Piano and Violin; Sonata in F for Piano and Viola; Sonata in C minor for Piano and Cello.

For pianoforte his works include a Concerto in E flat for piano and orchestra; a Sonata in D flat; a Suite in F minor; twelve Concert Studies (published by Breitkopf & Hartel), and many smaller works, such as the Dance of the Elves, Humoreskes, etc., which have been played by many artists and students. He has also written a large number of songs, concerted vocal music, an Organ Sonata and smaller pieces for the organ, some anthems for church purposes, etc.

Theodor von Sternberg

CONSTANTIN (IVANOVITCH EDLER VON) STERNBERG

CONSTANTIN (IVANOVITCH EDLER VON) STERNBERG was born at St. Petersburg in 1852, and took up the study of music at Leipsic in 1865 under Moscheles, Reinecke, Richter and Hauptmann. Two years later he began the career of opera conductor, starting in Leipsic with light opera, and closing at the court opera in Mecklenburg. In 1874 he resumed the study of the piano, studying with Kullak, and was then made pianist to the court of Frederick Francis II. From 1874 to 1879 he played in all the principal concerts in Germany, Switzerland, Austria and Turkey, and in 1879 made an extended concert trip through all Russia, including Siberia, into Asia Minor and Central Asia.

Upon returning to Berlin he was summoned before Emperor William I., and immediately afterwards came to the United States for a season of one hundred concerts. With the exception of occasional visits to Europe he has remained here ever since, and has introduced a large number of novelties every season. He is on friendly relationship with Moszkowski, both the Scharwenkas, Godard, and almost all other European composers. He has taken an active part in the promotion of music in America as a composer, player, essayist, conductor and teacher.

Besides a number of orchestral, vocal, and chamber music works, he has written over two hundred piano pieces, most of which are of value for their construction as well as their brilliancy. Among them may be mentioned especially the following:

Op. 20: Three pieces (Caprice, Gavotte, Etude), Op. 22: Ten piano pieces, Al Fresco, Op. 9: Concert Polonaise in D, Op. 38: Concert-Polonaise in C, Op. 26: Humoreske, Op. 49: On the Lagoon and Tarantella, Op. 50: Staccatella, Op. 56: Six Scenes Mignonnes, Op. 57: Chasseresse, Op. 58: Passe-pied, Op. 59: Seladon, Impromptu Valse, Op. 63: Air de danse.

EDITOR'S NOTE TO CHOPIN'S VALSE, OP. 69, NO. 1.

Edward Dannreuther in his interesting essay on Chopin, published in " Famous Composers and Their Works," relates : —

" Another and similar journey to Marienbad, Dresden, Leipsic, was made in the following summer, (1836,) the principal object of both tours being, it would seem, an affair of matrimony. Briefly stated, the facts are as follows: Three sons of Count Wodzinski had been educated at the school of Chopin's father. As a boy Chopin had repeatedly stayed with their parents in the country, and made the acquaintance of their little sister Maria. The family left Poland after the Russian occupation, and settled temporarily at Geneva. Chopin now and then wrote to them. He visited them at Dresden in 1835, when they were on the way back to Poland; and joined them again at Marienbad in 1836, where he proposed to Mdlle. Maria, still in her teens. He was rejected on the ground, if we may accept the lady's statement, that ' she could not run counter to her parents' wishes, ' etc. Not long afterwards she was married to a son of Chopin's godfather, Count Frederick Skarbeck. The little love story has been variously related, and turned into something like a novel. The present writer's impression is that the relatives on both sides (probably the younger people more than the elders) were at first desirous of a match; that the young lady was courted comme il faut, and that, eventually, a better partie was found for her. Among Chopin's posthumous works there is a plaintive little ' Tempo di valse ' in F minor (op. 69, No. 1) dated ' Dresden, September, 1835, pour Mdlle. Marie,' the autograph of which she treasured as L'Adieu."
